Schooner S. F. Kirwan Damaged.

In collision with a sunken obstruction in Chesapeake bay, while on her way from the Rappahannock river to the Great Wicomico, the two-masted bay schooner S. F. Kirwan, Capt. Saunders, damaged her hull so severely that she began to leak badly. Pumps were kept going to keep the schooner afloat until she could make harbor, and eight hours after striking the obstruction she was beached at Weems, Va., where two feet of water in her hold. Later the vessel was hauled out on a railway at Weems and a large hole was found in her hull. As soon as repairs are made the Kirwan will go to the Great Wicomico to load. The vessel is well known at this port, where she frequently brings cargoes of lumber.

Preservation of Potomac Bass.

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 12.—Deputy Game Warden Jacob C. Turner says he intends to break up the use of outlines in the Potomac river, claiming that hunters of young bass, ranging in length from three to five inches, are caught in this manner. He says it is on this account that reports are made of a scarcity of bass in the Potomac here.

Law Society Will Meet.

The American Society of International Law has completed arrangements for its meeting at the New Willard, this city, April 24, 25 and 26. One of the local members, who will deliver an address, is Hannis Taylor, lecturer on international law at Georgetown Law School.

After a service of fifty-four years in the ministry of the Methodist Protestant Church, Rev. J. Earle Maloy of Coloma, Md., has retired from active work.

MADERO DRUGGED AND SLAIN IN BED?

Suarez Strangled to Death
When Shot Revived Him,
Says Oviedo.

SECRETARY OF PRESIDENT
TELLS OF ASSASSINATION

Rurales Who Performed Executions
Themselves Killed—Capt. Cardenas Promoted for Deed.

NEW ORLEANS, April 12.—Martian Oviedo, former private secretary to President Madero of Mexico, arrived here today with a sensational narrative of the manner in which Madero and his vice president, Pino Suarez, met their death. Oviedo declared two rurales performed the execution on the direct order of their superior and that, later, they were put to death to seal their lips. After Oviedo escaped from Mexico City he joined the Carrancistas in Coahuila.

Drugged Before Tragedy.

Senior Oviedo reiterated a report that investigation of the killing of Madero and Suarez had revealed that both, while prisoners in the national palace, had been given narcotics in their food and shot to death while unconscious in their beds. Their bodies were soon after placed in an automobile and taken away to the penitentiary, he said, where the government asserted they were killed by the guards when an attempt was made to liberate them.

Suarez Strangled to Death.

"President Madero died almost immediately after he was shot," said Oviedo, "but the vice president did not die from the effects of the shots. The shock of the pistol bullets revived him from his stupor and he tried to raise himself to look at his murderer. Immediately he was seized about the throat and strangled to death."

"Marks on his body gave physical evidence in corroboration of the detailed story which was secured from persons who were but a few feet away when the murders were committed."

Oviedo declared that hundreds of people in Mexico City knew the true facts of the killing of Madero and Suarez. Even Mexicans who have escaped from the country, however, he says, fear to tell what they know because it would mean the prompt execution of relatives.

"Not even Americans and other foreigners in Mexico dare express themselves truthfully on such questions," he added, "for fear of the confiscation and destruction of their property or, perhaps, a worse fate."

"Scores of people have been put to death right in the capital since the beginning of the Huertista era of misrule in Mexico," he said, "and the crime which brought the death penalty upon them consisted solely in their lack of sympathy with a government founded upon treachery and assassination and pledged to tyranny and the suppression of personal and political liberty."

Desertions From Rebel Ranks.

NAGOS, Ariz., April 12.—Frequent cannonading between U.S. federalists at Nago, Sonora, and rebel bandidos continued at long range today. The state troops showed no disposition to start an other concentrated assault.

Attempt to Free Mexicans.

NOGALES, Ariz., April 12.—Three arrests were made here last night by U.S. troops. The arrests were made on the Taylor of suspects in a plot to free Mexican federal soldiers held here on parole.

According to documentary evidence, it was planned for the prisoners to be released by the U.S. army.

The prisoners, many of them federal army officers, fled to this side during the state troop attack on Nogales, Sonora.

American refugees arriving here today from Guaymas are inclined to place upon American sailors the responsibility for the street clash Tuesday night in Guaymas in which two Americans were killed and a number of sailors and Mexican police were wounded. They state that fifty seamen were on the ship without the customary escort of officers, and that American residents, fearing a race clash, warned Consular Agent C. D. Taylor, who declined to take any action by officially notifying Admiral Cowles.

American Sailors Blamed.

MEXICO CITY, April 12.—Reporting the killing of two sailors and the wounding of three other men from the United States cruiser California at Guaymas, Sonora, yesterday by the police men, American Consul Gilroy, at Hermosillo, Sonora, says the incident was due to the sailors being intoxicated and "very disorderly."

The consul bases his report on the statement of a witness who said that trouble in all likelihood could have been avoided had the consular agent at Guaymas notified the commander of the California previously.

EARNINGS THREE BILLIONS.

Corporations Will Pour More Money Into Federal Treasury.

The net earnings of corporations of the United States for the calendar year 1912 were $2,000,000,000, an increase of $250,000,000 over 1911. This amount will yield an income to the federal government under the corporation tax law of $300,000,000, which is $250,000,000, or 8 per cent greater than a year ago.

Royal E. Cabell, commissioner of internal revenue, has just received returns from practically all corporations and today completed assessments to the full extent of the $300,000,000, which must be paid to the government by June 30. In addition $2,000,000 will come from delinquents of previous years.

Net corporation earnings for 1911 decreased 12 per cent as compared with 1910. The figures for 1912, however, showing an increase of about 8 per cent over 1911, were 6 per cent greater than 1910.

C. E. Webb Dies of Heart Disease.

CHICAGO, April 12.—C. E. Webb, since 1883 in charge of the special agents of the United States Treasury Department here, died suddenly of heart disease today at St. Paul, Minn., where he had gone on official business. The news was conveyed in a telegram to his office.

SENATOR
TELLS HIS POLICIES

"Ham" Lewis Testifies to Faith in Wilson and His Measures.

DELIVERS VALEDICTORY
AT IROQUOIS CLUB

Says He Stands Between "Destructive Radicalism" and "Corrupting Conservatism."

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE STAR.
CHICAGO, Ill., April 12.—Col. James Hamilton Lewis, about to assume his brand-new term as successor to Shelby M. Cullom in the United States Senate, tonight gave his valedictory to Illinois. He spoke before the Iroquois Club at a dinner in his honor at Hotel La Salle. The colonel recognized the principles of the direct election of senators, his initiative and referendum and recall as remedies for recognized abuses. At the same time he warned his constituents that it is the duty of a public official as well as a private citizen to oppose remedies that kill the patient.

Pledges Himself to People.

Having licked destructive radicalism and corrupting conservatism into submission, the colonel proceeded to subdivide the people into two classes, things. He pledged himself faithfully to perform what the people had designated as their wish.

He testified to his faith in President Wilson and pledged his support to the measures of the administration. At the same time he admitted there might arise questions on which the people will not have indicated their wishes and in the settlement of which he shall find his ideas varying from those of the President and other members of the Senate. In this dilemma he pledged himself to the people.

"It is again the contest against the oligarchy of wealth and the corrupt use of consolidated power in the control of judges, the bribery of legislators and the control of the people out of their own choice as declared by them," he said, "and all of this by the ancient trick of intimidation of the weak, the purchase of the corrupt."

"The demand of the American citizen for the introduction of the initiative and referendum, and the demand for a long-suffered betrayal of the people's will by the representative bodies designated legislators."

WINNERS OF TROPHIES
AT KENNEL CLUB SHOW

Total of $2,000 in Prizes.
Large Crowd at Closing Exhibition.

With one of the largest crowds ever in attendance at a local dog show, the third annual exhibition of the Washington Kennel Club closed last night. Much interest was displayed by the patrons as they passed about the exhibition hall, and the trophy winners were picked for the large prize fund.

The hall was surrounded, attention centering on the champion dogs as they were brought out by the ring and announced. After the names of the winners and the classes were called out they were placed about the inside of the enclosure on exhibition.

There was considerable rivalry for the trophy in the foxhound class. Interest was intense when the judges made their decision between the pack of the Piedmont Hunt Club and Cy Cummings' pack. Finally the judges decided in favor of the Piedmont pack, Mr. Cummings readily acquiescing.

Total of Awards.

Charles H. Mason judged the events, and practically every one agreed as to the fairness of the awards. It was announced at the conclusion that those for the entire show totaled fully $2,000.

Mrs. Raymond Belmont of New York, who exhibited her Cyprian and Alande at the Washington show, left last evening for her home. The dog will be taken to Norfolk.

Get-away night seldom draws a large crowd, but last night was a notable exception, as the largest attendance of the entire period was reached.

In the afternoon Deodora Monarch, Robert Lobban's champion bulldog, won the trophy for the best dog of the show, and E. B. Chase's Mallowd Florence, won as best in the female class. Mr. Chase's Mallowd Florence, and Mallowd Maud, won as best brace.

Coveted Trophies.

That the evening awards were to be fought to a finish was evidenced at the outset when all local winners were called into the ring to be passed on for the special offered for best local of any breed exhibited. There were a large number of dogs, and after protracted deliberation the judge selected the Great Dane female Heliodorus of Windsor, owned by Howie Totten.

The Windsor kennel is located at Baldwin, Md., and as Heliodorus had won as a local dog at the Baltimore show, it was a great triumph for the kennel, claiming that a dog could not be a "local" in two cities. Mr. Totten proved the point by gracefully relinquishing the coveted honor and the prize was awarded to Revilo Tadd, the terrier owned by J. A. Dwyer.

Tadd has proved to be the sensational winner of the show and last night's win carried with it many handsome special prizes.

Contest for Specials.

The handsome John O. Evans trophy for the best team of four dogs of any breed was next contested for and some of the best animals were shown. Judge Mason finally awarded the handsome challenge cup to the quartet of foxhounds owned by A. J. Cummings of Chevy Chase.

The silver cup offered by the Chamber of Commerce for the best dog, male or female, owned by a resident of the city, was awarded to St. Francis, the great prize winning St. Bernard owned by Mrs. M. Q. Crown.

The action of Howe Totten in relinquishing the grand challenge trophy for a formal protest was entered against the win of Heliodorus, his Great Dane, was highly commended by the crowd of spectators.

FOR NEARBRIDE
"B. Bradford" and Fiancee

Got to Rockville Too Late to Get License.

There's a dinner waiting for "B. Bradford" in the Bellevue Hotel, dinner for two, with all the trimmings and decorations and fancy business from the delicatessen department that go with a wedding supper. There's a chief waiting to ask "B. Bradford" why he didn't show up with the lady whom he had taken as his chosen one. And somewhere there's a near-bride who promised the license clerk at Rockville that "she'd be out next week with mamma and see about this thing."

For the wedding, the surprise to the friends and the unexpected feast all came about because "B. Bradford" and fiancee arrived in Rockville too late yesterday evening to get the license.

Into the quiet town of Rockville there bowed a large, sportive automobile about 7:30 last evening. At the wheel was "B. Bradford," and by his side was his fiancee. They were bent on being married and had a youth with them to act as witness or to attend to whatever little details a motor car best man has to do at such functions. They had it all arranged, but when they got to Rockville they found the license clerk had closed his office for the day.

The young woman was rather displeased about it. She said:

"I only came home to Washington, and we'll come out next week with mamma and see about this thing."

"Not at all," returned "B. Bradford," with a perplexed look. "If we don't get married now we'll be the joke of Washington. We've just got to be married."

And then the motor car departed toward Washington.

The clerk at the Bellevue said late last night that there was a wedding supper still waiting for "B. Bradford." At the address in this city which "B. Bradford" gave at Rockville, the clerk was questioned over the telephone:

"Is your son married yet?"

"No, indeed, not that I know of."

"Why, he went to Rockville to be married, didn't he?"

"He's right here now, and he isn't married. Good night."

NECESSARY TO STICK TO HOURS.

To be married in Rockville, as in most other places, a couple must produce a license. John L. Brunett is the county clerk, and license dispenser at Rockville, but at first he was nowhere to be found. "B. Bradford" did not know it was necessary to stick to hours on wedding licenses, but he knows it now. The county clerk, J. D. Dwyer, was found, but he could not help the pair, finding the clerk. This official was obstinate, however. He told "B. Bradford" and fiancee, that the union rules prevailed. No licenses after hours, and that was all there was to it.

The young woman was rather displeased about it. She said:

"I only came home to Washington, and we'll come out next week with mamma and see about this thing."

"Not at all," returned "B. Bradford," with a perplexed look. "If we don't get married now we'll be the joke of Washington. We've just got to be married."

MRS. EATON READY
WITH HER DEFENSE

Attorney for Admiral's Widow
Says Case Is Not Complicated.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE STAR.
BOSTON, Mass., April 12.—Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, who is held in the Plymouth county jail on the charge of murdering her husband, Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton, by poison, has outlined and planned her own defense, and the widow's lawyers are now ready to meet the state at any time.

The hunt for J. P. Adams, Anasworth, Mrs. Eaton's divorced husband, is still being prosecuted. He is wanted to clear up certain points for the police. Though it was reported this afternoon that a second arrest was imminent in the now famous case this was emphatically denied by the authorities tonight.

It was learned today that some bountiful cash was paid in the house before the grand jury hearing was ended and which a man guarding the premises was seen to take away. The drink were said to be poison by Mrs. Keyes, eldest daughter of Mrs. Eaton.

The "June (Mrs. Keyes) was there. She said the cubes and said: 'Don't you touch those cubes. They are poison.' The evidence was taken. The evidence was taken. The evidence was taken."

Attorney Geogon of the Eaton defense said today:

"At present I feel most sanguine as to the outcome of the case. Mrs. Eaton has a strong case, and an excellent attorney. Various data in relation to her side of the case, which has simplified our work to a great extent."

"At this time there is no knowing when the case will come to trial, but we are in a position to meet the state at any time. Not having fled other than the four motions in relation to the indictment, we are in a position to meet the state at any time. Not having fled other than the four motions in relation to the indictment, we are in a position to meet the state at any time."

The question whether the state will ask for a sanity commission to examine Mrs. Eaton has yet to be determined. The defense has indicated that it would not decide until after the Norfolk grand jury sitting which will consider the case in about a fortnight.

At a late session of the police trial board yesterday the prosecution closed its case against Inspector Francis E. Cross, who is charged with undue familiarity with handbook men during the summer of 1911. The hearing will be resumed at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

Edwin B. Spear, a Western Union telegraph operator at the Metropolitan Hotel; United States Attorney Clarence R. Wilson and A. J. Bielaski, chief of the bureau of investigations of the Department of Justice, were present.

The testimony of the handbook men, who testified against Inspector Cross at yesterday's session of the trial board, Operator Spear told of various incidents which, in his opinion, showed that Inspector Cross was on terms of close familiarity with handbook men, who have since been arrested, tried and sentenced.

United States Attorney Wilson explained why the charges against the Inspector had not been placed before the grand jury and told of making the charges personally to Judge Sylvester and Commissioner Johnston. Mr. Bielaski told of the part taken by the Department of Justice in the investigation of the handbook men, and explained the use of two special agents of the department in securing evidence showing Inspector Cross' intimacy with the handbook men.

Inspector Cross, at the close of the session, asked for a continuance, which was granted until next Saturday. The attorney told the board that he was not prepared to go on with the defense of his client as he was compelled to get his information from the testimony of a bill of particulars having been refused by the attorneys prosecuting the case.

ACQUITTAL OF BLOOM
CAUSE OF CRITICISM

Records of the proceedings of the army courts-martial in the case of Second Lieutenant George C. Bloom, 4th Field Artillery, and of Second Lieutenant George C. Elsey, 11th Infantry, have been received at the War Department.

Lieut. Bloom was convicted of the charge of conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, in being specified that he was absent from his station and duty for several hours without leave. He was acquitted of charges of drinking intoxicating liquor in a public saloon and of becoming intoxicated to the scandal and disgrace of the public service.

The court sentenced Lieut. Bloom to be reprimanded by the reviewing authority and to be confined to the limits of his post for three months. Col. E. D. Hoyle, 11th Infantry, the reviewing authority, approved the findings of guilty and disapproved the findings of not guilty.

Says Evidence Was Clear.

"It was clearly established by the evidence before the court," said Col. Hoyle, "that Lieut. Bloom was guilty of the charge of conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, in being specified that he was absent from his station and duty for several hours without leave. He was acquitted of charges of drinking intoxicating liquor in a public saloon and of becoming intoxicated to the scandal and disgrace of the public service."
